Viet Cong Bombs Kill 2 Americans

18 Others Hurt By Explosions At Ball Game

Stern U.S. Protest Denounces Reds

SAIGON (UPI)—Two Americans were killed and 18 others — including five women and children — were injured Sunday night when two American-made aerial fragmentation bombs believed planted by Communist terrorists exploded under a crowded bleachers during a softball game here.

The United States, in a stern protest, denounced the bombing as the "most serious" incident perpetrated by the Communist Viet Cong terrorists against the United States since the Viet Nam war began in 1957.

Three Vietnamese suspected of planting the bombs were arrested.

125 Americans At Game

The blasts — the third anti-American bombing this month and the second in three days —went off under a first baseline bleachers where about 125 Americans were watching a softball team between two service teams.

The two Americans killed were servicemen. Five of the injured were hospitalized, one of them in serious condition with a badly torn foot.

Four of the injured were women, wives of American servicemen stationed here. A little girl, the daughter of a U.S. serviceman, also was injured slightly.

A U.S. military spokesman said following preliminary investigation both bombs were U.S.-made 20-pound aerial fragmentation bombs of the type used against Communist guerrillas. Each contained about 10 pounds of TNT.

Bleachers Shattered

Some sources believed the the terrorists probably observed that most of the spectators sat in the bleachers along the first base line and thus carefully planted the oombs there to have the maximum effect. The wooden stands were shattered "like matchsticks."

(In Washington the State Department said in a statement of protest that the bombing "demonstrates once again the brutality of the Viet Cong (Communists) and their masters in Hanoi," the capital of Communist North Viet Nam.

Cyprus Peace Mission Takes Ball To Athens

LONDON (UPI) — U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball flew urgently from London to Athens Sunday night for joint talks with U.S. ambassadors to Greece, Turkey and Cyprus, in an apparent last-ditch effort to prevent the Cyprus crisis from again exploding into armed conflict.

Ball had arrived only Sunday morning in London where well-informed diplomatic quarters said President Johnson may decide against sending U.S. troops to join a proposed international peace-keeping force on Cyprus because of objections by Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios.

In Washington, a State Department official described as highly improbable reports that the United States was backing off sending of troops for the pace-keeping force.

The U.S. Embassy, in announcing Ball's urgent Athens talks, said that from the Greek capital Ball would go to Ankara for further talks with the Turkish government.

The embassy announcement came after Ball, dispatched to London on a presidential mission Saturday night, had spent a day of cruical talks with British officials and the Cyprus foreign minister, Sypros Kyprianu.

The Dutch and Americans were reported to be making an all-out effort to find some formula of putting an international peace-keeping force into Cyprus which would not be under the authority of the United Nations Security Council.

Sir Alec Leaves For Canada, U.S.

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home flew off Sunday for conferences with President Johnson, saying he wants to be sure U. S. and British policies are in tune.

Sir Alec will meet Johnson in Washington on Wednesday after a stopoff in Ottawa for talks with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

Douglas-Home was accompanied on his trip by Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler.

As he boarded the airliner with his wife, Douglas-Home told newsmen he saw Britain's role in the world as "to do everything we can to maintain stability and order."

"One of my first tasks," he said, "will be to make sure British and American policies in all the theaters of the world are harmonizing and we are pulling together."

He made it clear that Cyprus would be high on his agenda for the Washington talks.

House Plans Rights Bill Vote Today

Session Will Start Early; Southerners Could Delay Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House meets early Monday with leaders of both parties determined to push through to a final vote on the 10-point civil rights bill.

There is no doubt that the votes are available to pass the wide-ranging measure and send it on to a grueling filibuster test in the Senate.

The only question seems to be whether the Southern opposition will resort to delaying tactics that could push the final roll call over until Tuesday.

Monday's session starts at 10 a.m. EST, two hours ahead of the usual opening.

Running—most unusually—as a team, Republicans and Northern Democrats maintained a persistent 2-1 edge in nearly 100 votes on amendments last week.

FEPC Section Hanging Fire

Remaining to be disposed of before the final vote is the section establishing fair employment practices to ban discrimination in hiring.

It was on this section that the bipartisan leadership suffered its only major setback late Saturday when the provision was broadened to include a ban on discrimination because of sex.

This amendment was offered by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., and carried 168 to 133. Befoe of the whole measure, there cause Smith is a dedicated foe of the whole measure, there is some speculation that he hopes to complicate the bill's chances for passage by introducing this added element.

28 Amendments Adopted

Through a solid week of voting, Southerners attacked the measure section by section, centering their heaviest oratorical fire on the provisions to make it easier for Negroes to vote, to open public accommodations and to withdraw U.S. funds from federally - aided projects in states where discrimination is practiced in applying of the programs.

In all 9 amendments were offered and 65 of them were beaten. Of the 28 adopted, all but one on the employment of women were relatively minor and were of a technical or clarifying nature.

However, it is these adopted amendments which offer the Southerners a chance for delay if they wish to use it. They could demand a roll call vote on each one—and a House roll call takes 30 to 40 minutes.

Macmillan Will Quit Parliament

LONDON (AP) — Former Prime Minister Harold Macmillan announced Monday he is bowing out of Parliament because, "I really cannot undertake the full duties of a conscientious member."

Since stepping down as prime minister in October, Macmillan has devoted most of his time to his publishing business, making only a few appearances in Parliament. He resigned the top British office after undergoing a prostate gland operation.

Macmillan announced his decision to bow out on his 70th birthday.

His withdrawal from the next election ends a parliamentary career stretching back 40 years. He first entered the House of Commons as a member for Stockton-on-Tees in 1924.

The Coast Guard said it had asked the Guantanamo Naval Base to investigate the report.

Member Of East German Olympics Team Defects

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Ute Gaehler, 23, a secretary, came to the Winter Olympics here as a substitute on the East German women's toboggan team. On Saturday night she slipped out of her billet and defected to West Germany, West German sources reported.

Her flight also brought out the fact from Innsbruck police that 13 tourists from Communist East European countries also have defected after coming here to witness the 12-day Olympic games and asked for asylum in Austria. They include seven Hungarians, five Czechs and an East German doctor.

But Ute was the first competitor from a Communist country to flee. The West German sources said she is safe in hiding in West Germany. They declined to say where.

She was a reserve in the women's singles toboggan squad on the combined German Olympic team. She was not called on to race.

East German sports officials usually keep a close watch on sports competitors when they are allowed outside the barbed wire and concrete fortifications that prevent the population fleeing the Communist country.

But Saturday night, Miss Gaehler found herself alone in the Olympic Village while her team mates were attending a reception.

She quickly packed and headed for West Germany. The nearest part of the border is 25 miles away from Innsbruck.

Freight Train Shattered By Explosion

Firemen pour streams of water on burning freight cars of a Florida East Coast freight train that was ripped apart by an explosion yesterday. The blast, called sabotage, tossed cars across an adjacent highway and others into a small tidal creek. Eleven non-operating unions have been on strike against the railroad for 13 months and the company has been operating with non-union personnel. Both the railroad line and busy U. S. Rt. 1 were closed. (AP Photofax)

Irene, Fiance In Seclusion At Royal Palace

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands (AP) — Princess Irene and her fiance, Prince Carlos de Borbon y Parma, relaxed in the privacy of the royal palace Sunday night.

A wave of satisfaction spread through Holland over her decision to give up her rights to the throne rather than jeopardize the monarchy.

The decision was forced on her Saturday night. She met the issue, decided in favor of love and life abroad. If she had not reached this decision, the coalition government would have quit.

The solution was found after a five-hour crisis session which ended shortly before 3 a.m. Irene, Don Carlos, Queen Juliana, Prince Consort Bernhard, Crown Princess Beatrix and Princess Margriet then had an engagement party. That broke up around 6 a.m.

The royal crisis was on every tongue. The Dutch by the millions hung onto the radio for any news.

There were no Sunday papers in Holland. There never are but word of mouth news encouraged thousands to stand before the palace gates all day long.

Irene and Carlos, radiantly happy, broke their seclusion in late afternoon for a 20-minute session before cameras in the palace gardens. Then they strolled 200 yards to the gates, greeted the throng and inspired rousing cheers.

The government promised to explain the issue and the solution to Parliament on Tuesday.

The report will outline the Cabinet's firm stand which compelled Queen Juliana, Prince Bernhard and the engaged couple to accept a hard constitutional fact.

Prime Minister Victor Marijnen laid it on the line Saturday night. He is reported to have told the royal family there was no guarantee Parliament would approve the marriage. Opposition centered on Irene's recent, secret conversion to Catholicism and Carlos' political position as a controversial claimant to the Spanish throne. The constitution forbids any member of the royal in "foreign politics."

Five Persons Killed In Train-Car Crash

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—A car-train collision near here Sunday killed five of seven persons in the auto—including a mother and three of her children—en route to a church just on the other side of the tracks.

Officials said the Missouri-Pacific passenger train crashed into the car near the Ball community, about six miles northeast of Alexandria.

Killed were Mrs. James A. Cole, 30, the driver; Jimmie Cole, 4, Wanda Cole, 11, another daughter Jackie, 5; and a friend, Phyllis Cooley, 9. All were of the Ball community.

Goldwater Favors Warship-Enforced Blockade Of Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Sunday he would use U.S. warships to halt shipment of British buses and French products to Communist Cuba. And he advocated another exile invasion of the island.

Goldwater, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination, repeated his belief that the United States should have sent Marines from Guantanamo into Cuba to restore water service to the big U.S. naval base after it was shut off last week by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

If this were done, the Arizona conservative said on ABC's radio-television program "Issues and Answers, "it might lead to some shooting in Cuba. That's all."

The Soviet Union has promised to assist Cuba if the Communist island is attacked.

Goldwater said he understands the United States still is maintaining a blockade of Cuba but, "It is not an effective one. Our allies are leaving us to do business with Cuba."

Asked if he would use U.S. power to stop commercial shipments, Goldwater replied, "I would."

Earlier, Goldwater was asked if he thought sending Marines out of Guantanamo into Cuba to restore water service could have been regarded as an opportunity to get rid of Castro. He replied, "It could be used that way."

But then he went on to outline his views on getting rid of Castro this way: "I don't think we have to use our forces to get rid of communism in Cuba. I never have believed so. I believe what President (John F. Kennedy) did at the Bay of Pigs was right in its concept, but wrong in not following through. Not that the 1,200 men would have ended the Communist problems in Cuba themselves but through sabotage etc. I think that by now we would have a different picture down there."

Panama Crowd Stopped Short Of Canal Zone

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Twenty - one Panamanian students carrying a Panamanian flag, singing the national anthem and screaming anti-American slogans marched on the Canal Zone Sunday but were stopped by armed Panamanian national guardsmen. There were no injuries or arrests.

The Panamanian troops had been alerted and formed a four block long cordon along Fourth of July Avenue near the boundary between Panama and the Canal Zone.

Armed with sidearms and clubs, the national guardsmen broke up the crowd and confiscated an anti-American banner carried by one of the students.

The demonstration occurred on what normally is Carnival Sunday in Panama.

However traditional festivities were cancelled for the first time in the history of the country in memory of 21 Panamanians killed last month during clashes with U.S. Canal Zone forces.

The clashes were sparked when some American high school students in the zone raised an American flag at their school, ignoring an order for the U.S. and Panamanian flags to be flown side-by-side in the Canal Zone.

The incident, and the bloodshed that followed, served to revive latent anti - American feelings and led to renewed demands for the United States to give up the canal.

Polyp In Benny's Nose Is Removed

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Comedian Jack Benny underwent one-hour surgery in St. John's Hospital Sunday for removal of a large, benign polyp at the back of his nasal passage.

His surgeon, Dr. Richard T. Barton, said afterward that Benny's condition was good. The veteran entertainer will be 70 next Friday.

Dr. Barton said the round polyp, an inch in diameter, was growing down into Benny's throat, obstructing his breathing and bothering his speech "It was bothering him because it sounded as if he had a head cold all the time and he felt it was interfering with his performances," the Beverly Hills throat specialist said.

"There was no evidence of malignancy."

Janitor Saw Oswald Shoot JFK, Paper Says

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — An eyewitness to the shooting of President Kennedy can positively identify Lee Harvey Oswald as the assassin, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported in a copyright story Sunday.

The witness, the Star-Telegram source said, is a Negro janitor, then employed by the Texas School Book Depository, who was on the sixth floor on Nov. 22.

The janitor has been held in protective custody since that day and soon will be taken to Washington to testify before the Warren Commission.

The witness' story, as reported by the source, is this:

He was looking out a window at the presidential motorcade when he heard a shot, very loud and close. Jumping back, he saw Oswald at the next window, kneeling, with a rifle aimed at the street below.

The man said he turned and ran to a spot near the door leading to the stairway, where some empty crates were piled, and crouched behind them.

"I was scared to death," he was quoted as saying. "I thought he was going to kill me, too."

The witness said the second shot was fired as he was running toward the crates and the third after he had hidden behind them. Then, he said, Oswald ran out the door.

"He almost stepped on me when he went past," the janitor is reported to have told officers.

The man, described as in his thirties, waited a few minutes, then fled the building and surrendered.

"Police slapped a vagrancy charge on him so he could be held," the source said.

Blast Blocks Line, Closes Busy U.S. Rt. 1

Strike-Hit FEC's Only Derrick Car Also Sabotaged

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Saboteurs knocked out strike - plagued Florida East Coast Railway service to metropolitan Miami Sunday with a dynamite blast that derailed a 91-car freight train. A second blast across town, disabled the only FEC derrick car in south Florida.

Police were forced to close busy U.S. 1 in northern Miami at the scene of the derailment, only yards from the heavily - traveled four - lane highway.

No injuries were reported as a result of the two explosions, but a free lance photographer, Albert Nitti, 22, of Miami, received severe electric burns on the left hip and thigh when he touched an object in contact with a fallen power line.

Damage was estimated at more than a quarter million dollars by W. L. Thornton, FEC chief operating officer.

FBI Joins Investigation

Officers estimated U.S. 1 would reopen Monday, but said the FEC's north and south tracks might be blocked for three days.

FBI agents, city, county and railroad detectives were investigating.

The violence was the latest—and most damaging—in a series of acts against the railroad since 11 nonoperating employes unions went on strikes Jan. 23, 1963.

"This was definitely sabotage," said Thornton. "Fortunately no one was hurt. This is the worst since the strike began. I am not implying the unions are to blame. No one knows at this time who did this."

Fire Follows Wreck

The first blast rocked the southbound freight at 1:37 a.m. (EST) as it crossed a 15-foot high wood and steel trestle spanning Oleta River at NE 174 St. and U.S. 1. It was touched off under the front wheels of the lead diesel.

The four diesel units cleared the bridge, then plunged off the rails as they slid along, dug themselves as much as three feet into the dirt and gravel roadbed.

Thirty-three freight cars behind the locomotive were derailed and most of these piled up in a twisted, precariously balanced heap in the stream bed.

Fire broke out immediately after the explosion and flames destroyed most of the 33 cars.

At 5 a.m. in the FEC Hialeah Yards, some 20 miles away, employes were warming up the coal heated boiler of a derrick car when dynamite which police said was placed on a grate above the coals, exploded and blew out the top of the boiler.

Russian Conferee May Have Defected

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) —Soviet officials said Monday a member of the Soviet delegation at the 17-nation disarmament conference disappeared last Tuesday and may have defected to the West.

He was Yuri Nossenko, 36.

Chief Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin formally notified Geneva Police Chief Andre Leyvraz of Nossenko's disappearance Saturday —four days later.

Donations To Bury Woman 17 Days After Death Pour In To Needy Family

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mrs. Irene Angelina Grant will be buried Tuesday—17 days after her death—in the manner and place her family want.

Since her death on Jan. 23, Mrs. Grant's body has lain in a funeral home because the family couldn't raise the $315 down payment on the $613 bill.

But all that changed Sunday, after a newspaper story told of the plight of Ollie Grant and his 10 children.

Money poured in all day—at the Grant home, at the Ruskin Heights Baptist Church and at the Weilert Funeral Home.

There is more than enough, but Blaine Weilert, owner of the mortuary, doesn't want it.

Weilert had a conference with the Rev. Loren Goings of the Ruskin church and two other men.

"They asked me what my expenses were and we figured it at $350," Wilert said.

"I told them I wanted to do it for nothing now, but they said it would be better if they paid, since all the money had come in.

"I agreed to go along. But I don't have to cash the check, do I?"

Grant, 67, is listed as totally disabled by the state. He gets $361 a month in Social Security, a World War I pension and a Missouri old age pension. His 45-year-old wife died at General Hospital of a gall bladder ailment.

His children range in age from 22 to 4. The oldest son had promised to come back from California to help. A 20-year-old and a 19-year-old have been away cutting cordwood, trying to raise the money.

It won't be needed now.

"My wife has been on the telephone all day long talking to people who want to give money," said Mr. Goings. "We had $240 after church services this morning. The money is coming from everywhere.

"Mrs. Grant will be buried at Goodrich, Kan., at 1 o'clock Tuesday. I'll go with the family."

The Weilert home advertises low cost funerals.

"We take care of the poor," Weilert said. "To do that, we work on very low margins. We must have our money, or we would have to pass on the cost to others and that wouldn't be fair.

"We had one service for $185 we wanted to give the Grants.

Tawes Pledges Appalachian Plan's Support

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes has pledged Maryland's federal redevelopment program of the Appalachian region.

Under the federal proposal, some $4 billion would be spent in the area, which includes three Western Maryland counties over the next five years. The states would share costs for some of the projects.

Some of the projects proposed are a major highway network, water control projects, a cooperative timber development plan and vastly improved educational training and retraining and public health activities.

Tawes, in a letter written Saturday to Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., under secretary of commerce, said he believed the plan would succeed because:

"It is broad in scope, providing for attacking several basic multaneously.

"It is realistically budgeted—it does not underestimate the magnitude of the task.

"It provides for a cooperative effort by all levels of government.

"It gets at the causes, not the symptoms, of Appalachia's economic and social deficiencies.

"And it aims toward final solution by the traditional economic forces of our society, not by government," Tawes said.

He said he thought Maryland probably would contribute between $5,000 and $6,000 toward the program this year and "substantially more when the states are called on for their share of the operating cost in fiscal 1967, 1968 and 1969."

"But the road program alone will be more than worth it," said Tawes. "We have every reason to think that one of the main highways in the Appalachian system will connect central Maryland with the Ohio Valley. The economic benefits of such a highway are incalculable..."

Romney Raps LBJ's 'Trickery'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said Sunday that President Johnson has used every trick in the book to make it appear he has cut spending and will bring in more revenue. But Romney predicted the deficit will be as big as ever.

He accused the administration also of running a soft foreign policy that makes the United States "a patsy" for the Communists.

"Freedom is in retreat around the world," he said.

Romney, a possible contender for the Republican presidential nomination, was interviewed on the NBC radio and television program "Meet the Press."

He said his position on the GOP nomination still is that he is not a candidate and will not become one but would accept a draft—a possibility he termed "unlikely."

The Michigan governor said he doesn't think the campaigns being waged by the announced Republican candidates have been meaningful. He singled out Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. for criticism in three fields.

Romney said he has listened to Goldwater but still isn't sure where the senator stands on civil rights and labor laws, collective bargaining and foreign affairs.

Girl, 16, Excited By Airplane Ride Runs Into Prop

NORTH AMITYVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—The excitement of an airplane ride so exhilarated a 16-year-old high school girl Sunday that she leaped from the plane on landing and ran into the spinning propeller to her death.

Police identified the dead girl as Nancy Thompson of Wantagh.

She had been taken on a flight by George E. Martin, whose daughter, Judy, 16, was her close friend.

Because the single - engined plane could accommodate only a pilot and one passenger, the Martin girl stayed on the ground while her father and Miss Thompson took a flight.

Martin had just landed and taxied to the end of the field at a private airport near here on Long Island, when the girl leaped excitedly from the plane and ran into the propeller. She died instantly.

"Beatlemania" Hits TV Studio

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Sullivan turned his television show over to England's Beatles Sunday night and the British rock 'n rollers sent the predominately teen-age audience into squeals of ecstasy reminiscent of the World War II Sinatra era.

The virtually all - girl studio audience rocked, bounced, whistled, screamed and some wept with joy when the mop-topped Britons opened the show with three numbers.

"Beatlemania" prevailed when the group swung into "She Loves You." At intervals during their rendition of the song, the beatles, reaching a high note, lean together and shake their shaggy heads. The squeals drowned out the lyrics.

"I think they're absolutely divine," observed Kathy O'Neal, 16, in a mement of calm during a commercial. "We love them."

It was the first time the English quartet appeared live on American television. The audience took Sullivan literally when he said they could shout and scream while the Beatles were on provided they behaved during the other acts.

Amvets Oppose State Tax Boost

FREDERICK (AP) — The Maryland Department of the American Veterans of World War II said Sunday they are against a proposed state income tax increase.

The executive committee met here Sunday and decided to send would raise state income taxes a letter to Gov. Tawes, protesting the proposed hike which from three to four per cent.

The Amvets said they believe the increase, which Tawes is pushing, is "premature and without sufficient study of alternatives to definitely justify a tax increase at this time.

"We strongly feel there should be constructive documentation in support of any tax raise rather than an arbitrary policy for the purpose of raising rates," the letter to Tawes said.

U. S. And Japanese Freighters Collide

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP) — American and Japanese freighters collided in dense fog at the mouth of Yokohama port Sunday, the Maritime Safety Agency reported. There were no injuries among crew members.

The agency said the 12,669-ton Oregon Bear, owned by the Pacific Far East Line of the United States, and the No. 1 Shinsei Maru, 3,240 tons, owned by the Kawasaki Steamship Co. in Japan, collided.

Panama Claim U.S. Committed To Talks Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States said Sunday night "there is not and never has been" a secret agreement with Panama committing the United States to renegotiate the 1903 treaty under which it runs the Panama Canal.

A source had said earlier that Panamanian officials told the Inter-American Peace Committee last month that a memorandum signed secretly in 1962 committed the United States to renegotiate the canal treaty.

The source, a high Latin American official, said the memorandum was read to the committee just before the collapse of efforts to bring the United States and Panama to the conference table to settle differences that resulted in fatal violence Jan. 9.

But a State Department spokesman said Sunday night, in a prepared statement:

"There is not and never has been a secret governmental agreement between the United States and Panama concerning treaty relationships. There is no difference in the attitude of the U.S. government today toward treaty revision and that which existed in June 1962. A memorandum being circulated by Latin American sources never constituted agreement of any kind. It is simply a memorandum of conversation describing certain conditions which might entail treaty revision."

Previous peacemaking efforts foundered on inability of the United States and Panama to agree on whether discussions of the outbreak of violence should include revision of the treaty.

As a result of the deadlock, Panama severed diplomatic relations and charged in the Organization of American States that the United States acted aggressively in the disorder in which more than 20 were killed.

A five-man OAS fact-finding committee is to go to Panama on Tuesday to begin its investigation of these charges.

The source who told of presentation of the purported memorandum said the peace committee did not attach great significance to it. He said the feeling was that if Panama had regarded it as a binding commitment the paper would have been presented earlier, rather than brought out in an apparent last-ditch effort to force U.S. acceptance of Panamanian views on the agenda for a conference.

Policeman Slain With Own Gun

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Police said a Richmond patrolman was shot to death early Sunday with his own pistol while questioning two men and, hours later, Lt. O.L. Billingsley announced that two suspects had been booked for investigation of murder.

The police officer killed was Charles M. Ross, who lived in Martinez. The 31-year-old Ross apparently was shot during a fight with two men. His pistol was missing.

Lt. Billingsley identified the two men under investigation as Edmund Bally, 21, and David Breen, 19, both of Richmond.

Police also were looking for another man, identified as Frank Gomez, about 20, and also known as "Bally."

Police maintained a watch over Breen's residence where they arrested Edmund Bally. They said they found him hiding in a closet.

Maryland News In Brief

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Samuel Dresden, professor of French literature at the University of Leiden in The Netherlands, has been appointed visiting professor in the University of Maryland's Department of Foreign Languages.

Dresden will continue the free public lecture series begun last fall. The topic of the weekly lecture will be "The Origins of the French New Novel."

During his stay at the university, Dresden also will conduct a seminar in French.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—The Capitol Theater, one of two movie houses in Ocean City, was destroyed by fire Saturday.

About 90 firemen from Ocean City and Berlin kept the flames from spreading to adjacent buildings. The fire was controlled after two hours.

The roof of the 820-seat theater collapsed during the fire and firemen pulled down the marquee. There was no immediate estimate of damage. Officials said the blaze may have started in the rear of the building where a gas stove and lighting control panel were burned out.

The theater was not open at the time.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Court decisions upholding the constitutionality of the implied consent law in other states should improve the chances for passage of such a law in Maryland, says the Maryland State Police superintendent.

Col. Carey Jarman said one of the major obstacles to passage of such a law in Maryland was the feeling that it would be declared unconstitutional. Jarman said Virginia courts have upheld such a law.

An "implied consent" law would make it mandatory for drivers suspected of being drunk to take a breath analyst test.

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — A New York congressman has been accused of sedition by the Cambridge city commissioners.

In a statement issued Saturday, the commissioners accused Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, a Harlem Democrat, of urging Cambridge Negroes to violate the laws. Powell told a large audience of Negroes here last Tuesday that they did not have to obey legislation upholding segregation since they did not have a hand in making the laws.

"The words of ... Powell ... constitute sedition and are in direct conflict with his oath of office," said the statement.

Cambridge has been under militia law since violence followed integrationist demonstrations last summer.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The grimmest thing happened at school yesterday and I am getting the worst of it through no fault of my own.

My girl friend and I were walking out of the cafeteria when we heard these two creeps behind us. They were saying some very crude things. We kept on walking and paid no attention.

Suddenly one of the guys slammed me across the backside with a book. I was so shocked I swallowed my gum. When I heard these wild roars of laughter I turned around and jabbed one of the guys with the point of the compass I happened to have in my hand at the time.

He screamed as if he had been stabbed. Two teachers came running out of study hall. Frankly I was surprised at how much blood could come from a little tiny pin prick.

Now it's all over school that I stabbed this kid and they are making me sound like a maniac. Nobody says a word about him hitting me across the rear first.

All my school privileges have been taken away for one month. The principal called my mother and I am grounded at home, too. You might say I have been sentenced to solitary confinement for 30 days. Is this fair?—PERSECUTED

DEAR PERSECUTED: What do you mean, "He screamed as if he been stabbed?" He was stabbed—and you got what you deserve, Cupcake.

The boy should not have belted you with the book, but you had no license to attack him with the sharp end of a compass. It could have been a catastrophe. Sweat out your punishment and learn to control your temper.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am concerned about my behavior when I am invited to a party.

I am never content to sit and enjoy myself, as a guest. I always feel much more comfortable when I work in the kitchen, empty ashtrays, freshen drinks and so on.

What bothers me is my motivation. What appears to be a desire to help is really a compulsion to keep busy. It makes me feel "needed" and therefore "wanted." Can you explain this to me? —PERPETUAL MOTION

DEAR PERPETUAL: You've just explained it to yourself but here is some elaboration:

Your feelings of being unwanted and unneeded have trailed you from childhood into adulthood. You feel inferior so you attempt to "serve" in order to justify having been invited to the party.

Many accomplished and successful people have the same problem. In spite of overwhelming evidence to the contrary they still feel inadequate and unworthy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a married man with a problem. Some time ago while on an assignment at one of our company's midwest branch offices I developed a warm friendship—not a romance—with a young married woman I will call Portia.

During the holiday season I received a beautifully framed picture of Portia with a little note, "For your desk."

Several of my colleagues know Portia and her husband. They come through this city several times a year on business. I'm afraid Portia may be offended if she does not see her gift on my desk when she drops by. Yet I can't bring myself to display her photograph. May I have your advice?—PERPLEXED

DEAR PLEX: Portia must have oatmeal where her brains belong. Her gift was in abominable taste.

Throw the picture out—frame and all.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

[c 1964: By The Chicago Tribune]

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Partner opens with one club and you hold:

♠ J 9 5 2 ♡ Q 6 5 3 ◇ Q 10 6 5 ♣ 7

What is your response?

A.—We are disinclined to pass partner out in a bid of one club where there is any reasonable excuse for bidding. Partner may have a second suit consisting of hearts or spades and a better result will be obtained if he is afforded the opportunity to show it. A one diamond response allows for this contingency. The worst possible procedure would be to bid one no trump. It would be better to pass.

Q. 2—Neither side vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠ A Q J 7 5 ♡ J 10 9 5 2 ◇ K 3 ♣ 5

East has opened with one heart, what do you bid?

A.—We are in favor of a bid of one spade. While normally it is not recommended that immediate action be taken when most of your strength is in the suit that has been bid ahead of you, in this case your principal strength is not hearts but spades. By passing you may find yourself completely shut out of the auction if responder should bid two of a minor and opener supports that suit. If you first make a simple overcall and then East rebids the hearts you are in a position to make a penalty double.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ A K Q 10 9 ♡ 9 ◇ A J ♣ A K J 9 8

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 ♡	Pass	4 NT	Pass
5 ◇	Pass	5 NT	Pass
6 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six no trump. It is something of a rarity to hear your partner open the bidding when you were contemplating making a demand bid. When this once-in-a-blue-moon prospect actually occurs, stopping short of seven may appear the height of cowardice. However, despite the possession of all the aces and kings you can't count 13 tricks. In fact, the bidding labels the hand as a potential misfit and even a contract of six may not be a laydown. The safest slam prospect appears to be no trump since a bad break in one or even two suits may be withstood there, whereas a bad trump break could doom a suit contract.

Q. 4—Both sides vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠ Q 9 7 3 ♡ 10 8 ◇ K Q 9 5 2 ♣ K 10

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Double

What do you bid now?

A.—Redouble. A hand that is average in high cards (10 points) with trump support for partner qualifies as a redouble. Particularly in view of your previous pass, partner can hardly look for more than this in the way of honor strength. A jump to three spades is not recommended. Partner would no doubt interpret such action as an attempt to impede the opposition, rather than as a strength showing gesture on your part.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠ A K Q 9 8 ♡ A J 5 4 3 ◇ Q ♣ Q 9

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	3 ♣	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Our choice is a bid of four clubs. Partner must have a very substantial suit to insist upon it in the face of your showing a major two suiter. A rebid of three hearts might tend to make partner lose interest since it would sound merely as an effort on your part to force him into showing a preference which he has once refused to do.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠ A J 9 3 ♡ Q 10 6 3 ◇ A 6 ♣ K 8 7

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ◇	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have just about a minimum opening bid and a rebid should be chosen which will not give partner an impression of strength. Resist, therefore, the temptation to bid two no trump. Such a call describes a stronger hand than this. The suggested rebid is two hearts. This is a less expensive call and permits partner to return to two spades if he chooses.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ A K 9 7 ♡ 4 2 ◇ A J 10 8 6 4 ♣ 5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	2 ♣	2 ♡	3 ♣

What do you bid now?

A.—With this very fine hand a free rebid is in order and our vote is for three diamonds. Partner will recognize this as a step forward, since you were at liberty to pass the three club bid around to him. A rebid of three spades at this point might prove awkward because of the bidding space thus consumed. After the three diamond bid if partner rebids three hearts there is the choice of raising to four or of bidding spades.

Q. 8—Partner opens with two no trump and you hold:

♠ J 8 5 3 2 ♡ K 4 ◇ J 3 ♣ K Q 7 2

What is your response?

A.—Your hand counts 10 and partner has a minimum of 22, which adds to within a point or two of a slam. However, with this unbalanced hand we prefer first to show the five card suit and then follow up with a raise of the no trump if partner returns to three no trump. Our vote is therefore for three spades.

Never apply perfume to your clothes or you'll find yesterday's stale fragrance clinging to you today.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be Feminine

Don't let the mailman pass you up on St. Valentine's Day. If he does, the trouble may be with you and not the sender.

Take an inventory of your good points and your bad points. Your major handicap may actually be femininity!

For instance, when you think of buying perfume, do you give up the idea because you think it's extravagant? Let me say that you're not being extravagant—just extravagantly feminine. And that's not bad. A man, especially, will remember your perfume fragrance long after he's forgotten the color of the dress you wore on that special date.

Perfume gives you a sense of being charming, utterly bewitching and beautiful. It helps you create any atmosphere of personality that you'd like to create. But the trick is to learn just which fragrance is right for you. Once you purchase it, however, and the bottle's open, don't be afraid of using too much. Follow the example of the French women; they use an ounce in a month. That's about how much many American women apply in a whole year!

The best way to apply perfume is, of course, with an atomizer. Spray it on those effective pulse spots — the wrists, crook of the elbows, throat, and behind the knees. Another advantage of an atomizer is that your finger doesn't have to touch the perfume. Because your skin contains acids, dipping your finger into the perfume can easily cause the precious contents of the bottle to spoil.

Lastly, always carry a small vial of your favorite perfume with you in your purse. Refresh yourself periodically as you do with your lipstick. Too many women forget this valuable and glamorous beauty tip.

Woman To Be

But they made up their mind they wanted this particular service. We tried to discourage this, but there is no way you can dictate that.

"We try to encourage the family to use the clothing a person used in life. It saves them that way.

"But the Grants selected a burial dress considerably more expensive than other dresses."

The mortuary has had calls all day, "some of the people were outraged," Weilert said, "but when we explained our position they understood. Most of the calls have been sympathetic to us.

"People have been dropping off money. But we've accepted not one dime. We told them to give it right to the family or to the church. . ."

The money will be put into a trust fund for the children, Mr. Goings said.

Ceremony Performed

Two young Ohioans, Frederick Richard Berecek, RD 1, Vienna, and Diana Marie Peters, Oriel Rogers Road, Gerard, were married Friday in the main court room in the first February civil ceremony for Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

During January, the first month in which civil ceremonies were legal in Maryland, Mr. Boden officiated in six civil ceremonies. Four of them involved Pennsylvanians, another a couple from New York State, and the sixth one united two West Virginians. The seven civil ceremonies since January 1 have involved people from four states and none from Maryland. None of the participants was a divorced person but there were several cases of religious differences.

Cyprus: Island Powder Keg

The situation on the island of Cyprus is complex, but the major elements are these:

The Turkish minority and the Greek majority have been at each other's throats for years.

When Cyprus gained its independence from British rule, a constitution was established providing protection for the Turkish minority's rights. President Makarios, the Greek leader, contends that the constitution must be revoked because it makes administration difficult.

Fighting broke out a few weeks ago between Greek and Turk national forces. And Greece and Turkey both have additional armed forces poised to invade the island.

More than 3,000 British troops are keeping an uneasy peace, but London has asked the United States to help with the policing. The U. S. has proposed a multi-nation force from countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for a three-month assignment.

Both Turkey and Greece accepted the U. S. plan, but Makarios contends the UN should police the island.

The U. S. proposal involves an odd arrangement: using NATO troops to keep peace between two NATO members (Greece and Turkey). But a UN force would be subjected to manipulations by the anti-colonalist Asian-African bloc and might permit Communist meddling by the Soviet Union. Moscow supports Makarios' position.

UN Cracker Barrel

New York Diary: Lunch with my UN cracker barrel philosopher friend, hard by the glinting waters of the East River. "What's going on here?" I asked.

"Nothing, really," said the Cracker Barrel Philosopher. "It's an election year."

"Meaning what?" I asked.

"Well, it's Lyndon," he said. "He doesn't want things brought up until after next November. Might divide the country."

"But what about de Gaulle and the theory that he has greased the way for seating Red China?" I asked. "Surely, with the French and their friends joined to the Russians and their friends and the Castro-ite Latinos and the British and the Commonwealth nations all wanting the Red Chinese in, we haven't a chance of stalling the question off until after our election."

"Not so sure about that," said the C.B.P. "You see, the Russians may be willing to put the vote off, too. Might be embarrassing for them to have Thunder to the Left of the Left around here. Some of the Russians were talking with me the other day. They say they are still for seating Red China. But they act sort of embarrassed about it. And the questions they ask are mighty peculiar. They evidently think that Washington might have put de Gaulle up to recognizing Peking. Why? Oh, just to cause trouble for the Russians. Put 'em on the spot when it comes to voting for this. Thunder on the Left of the Left in the UN."

"Do you really think de Gaulle wants to cause trouble for the Russians in the UN?" I asked. "Thought he wanted to cause trouble for us."

"Who knows what de Gaulle thinks," said the C.B.P. "Actually the French are the best friends the Russians have around here."

"How so?" I asked.

"Well, the French don't pay their bills for supporting UN action which displeases them. This gives the Russians moral support when they don't pay."

"Maybe the way to settle that," said I, getting into the cracker barrel mood, "would be for the U.S. to skip its payments, too."

"Nothing like economics to explain things," said the C.B.P., "look at Panama."

"I'm looking," I said.

"It's the Zonites that cause much of the trouble," said the C.B.P. "They don't buy from the Panamanians. A Panamanian around here was telling me about what happened after the war in his country. Seems that when the war was on, the Panamanians built up a cattle business. Bought good stock to get prime beef going. The Zonites bought it and ate it. After the war, they decided they preferred grain-fed beef from New Zealand. Nothing could be done about this. It was the same thing with rice. The Zonites ate Panama rice at first — came from good seed from Louisiana. But when they found they could get rice cheaper from Ecuador, they switched."

"And the answer?" I asked.

"Maybe the Panamanians should control tariffs in the Zone. My Panamanian friend objects to us running a glorified PX right in the middle of what he considers his country."

"If it's only a matter of a little money for meat and rice," I said, "the Panama question could be easily settled."

"Not so now," said the C.B.P. "It's an election year in Panama, too. They need bigger issues."

"We seem always to get behind the 8-ball," I said.

"We're not fast on the draw," said the C.B.P. "Take those Cuban fishing boats we picked up off our coast. Right away the Castroites had it up as a question for a UN grievance committee to consider. Nothing will be done about it, probably. But a mimeographed statement presenting the Cuban case went out immediately to a hundred or so nations. Our case remains under lock and key, in Washington."

"Something for Tom Mann, our boss of Latino affairs, to look into," I said. "Those Cuban boats might not have been fishing."

"Right," said the Cracker Barrel Philosopher. "If they weren't fishing, we should have beaten Castro to the punch in telling the world."

'And My War On Poverty Is A Must'

The Moscow-Peking Split Widens Significantly

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON — The split of the world Communist movement into two envenomed and embattled camps is now an accomplished fact. After the Chinese Communist government's last astonishing attack on Nikita S. Khrushchev and the other Soviet leaders, the following consequences can be rather confidently predicted.

First, splits will certainly occur, and two competing parties will emerge, both, of course, claiming the name "Communist," in most countries of the world.

This development, with all its inevitably crippling consequences, is both invited and applauded in the vicious Chinese statement. Local Communist leaders who have defied the orthodox, pro-Moscow majorities, like Joao Amazonas and Mauricio Grabois in Brazil, E. F. Hill in Australia and Premalal Kumarasiri in Ceylon, are singled out for high praise.

Just as the statement was issued, the pro-Chinese faction seized control of the Communist Party in West Bengal. Similar developments are predicted in the "Italian, U.S. and other Communist parties," It is now clear that the desire to minimize such developments in Latin America was the prime motive of Khrushchev's recent invitation to Fidel Castro. Castro swore loyalty to Moscow—after Moscow had paid through the nose.

Second, the split may not be formalized by the establishment of a Fourth International (or fifth, if you count the Trotskyists' obscure fractional group). But it is highly likely that the Chinese leaders will eventually convene their own World Communist Congress, to read the Soviet leaders out of the party.

Mao Tse-tung will have the means to do this, as soon as enough splits have occurred to provide European, American and African companions for the Asian Communists whom he already controls. Mao has now characterized Khrushchev and Co. as worse by far than the worst heretics whom Marx, Engels and Lenin read out of the party in the direst controversies of the past. Hence, he can hardly refrain from pronouncing the ultimate anathema.

Third, the Moscow leaders, at a minimum, are likely to be driven to break off state relations and to denounce their Mutual Defense Treaty with Peking. In addition, the Soviet leaders and the other party leaders supporting Moscow are also likely to pronounce the ultimate anathema on Mao-Tse-tung and his colleagues.

Altogether, the quarrel between Peking and Moscow has moved into a new phase. What makes the phase so new is not Peking's use of such words as "brawlers," "rogues," "opportunists" with "no sense of shame" and "lackeys" of the imperialists, to characterize the Soviet leaders.

What makes the phase new, rather, is Peking's treatment of the sacred theme of party unity. The note is struck in a quotation from Engels, who was exulting over one of the earlier splits in the world Communist movement. If it had not been for this ferocious quarrel with M. A. Bakunin and his sympathizers, wrote Engels, "the International would indeed have gone to pieces—gone to pieces through unity."

In other words, the Chinese Communists have now proclaimed that they have a sacred duty to forget about party unity and to safeguard party purity by splitting the World Communist Movement into two viciously hostile competing movements. In doing so, of course, they accuse the Soviets of being the real advocate of "splitism," just as Lenin accused the Mensheviks with whom — horror of horrors! — the Soviet leaders are directly compared.

The drama and significance of the new phase are without recent precedent. The struggle between the Communist and free halves of the world has been harsh and bitter enough. But as history also shows, this kind of struggle is a mere pink tea party, compared to the kind of holy war between Communist factions that the Chinese have now called for.

Nor is this quite the end of the story, one must add. In September, Moscow threatened Peking with a "resolute rebuff." The new Chinese statement now observes sarcastically, "We have been eagerly waiting to see what this 'most resolute rebuff' would be."

Just conceivably, the answer to this question may lie in the Soviet troop movements toward China's borders. These are known to include movements of certain crack fighting outfits very unlikely to be assigned to passive border defense. The experts still think this answer is not probable, but they have strikingly ceased to rule it out altogether.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PUNSTERS — There's a congressman from nearby Maryland named Carlton Sickles. Fortunately, he has a sense of humor.

He reported that he was being referred to in a high school discussion as Representative Sickles when one of the students asked what his first name was. Immediately, another student replied "Pop."

When "Pop" Sickles heard of the pun he neatly provided a topper, remarking, "Those students must have been in a good humor."

SURPRISING SILENCE—At the height of the crisis in Panama, newsmen besieged senators for their views and comments. Because the situation was extremely fluid, it was hard for them to get a news story. Senators were understandably leery of making some observation or suggestion that could ludicrous because of change in the situation about the time their views were getting into print.

In desperation, some reporters sought out Sen. Hubert Humphrey, who has ideas on all subjects and expresses them at the drop of a hat. But this time, even that fountain of words dried up to a meager few: "Silence is golden."

However, the senator's refusal to comment had nothing to do with fears that he might look foolish. Humphrey said he feared that congressional talk about the Panama crisis might result in further misunderstanding and further inflammation of the touch-and-go situation.

U. S. Should Construct Volta River Dam In Nigeria Instead Of Ghana

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The Johnson Administration has an easy way to make the No. 1 egomaniac of Africa, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, climb down from his high horse and quit badgering the United States, which has so long befriended him.

All the Administration has to do is give the word to the Kaiser Corporation, now building the giant $196,000,000 hydroelectric project on the Volta River, to close it down in Ghana and move to Nigeria.

The project can be built on the same river, at the same expense, but in a friendly country. Very little work has been done along the Volta as yet, and its removal to Nigeria would meet with approval from practically every African country.

For President Nkrumah is about the most unpopular man in Africa, chiefly for the reason that he has given the rest of the continent a black eye. The new republics of Africa are proud of their progress and down on the dictator of Ghana who has ruled with the mailed fist and stifled all political opposition.

If the Volta Dam is built in a country where the United States is constantly kicked in the seat of the pants, the American Embassy mobbed and the Stars and Stripes hauled down, the USA will lose face. If the Volta project is transformed to friendly Nigeria there will be applause.

NOTE — Kaiser Industries is planning a big bauxite plant on the Volta River for the manufacture of aluminum. Bauxite deposits are also found in Nigeria.

Jackie Steps Out

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy has begun to move around unobtrusively in Washington society. Her surprise date with Marlon Brando at the Jockey Club has not been her only social engagement.

The other evening she was invited to dine at the British Embassy, and Lady Ormsby Gore at the last minute found herself shy a companion for the former First Lady. So she put an emergency call through the White House to find Mike Forrestal, a White House aide.

This resulted in a unique situation by which the British Embassy used the White House telephone switchboard as a social secretary to round up an extra man for Mrs. Kennedy.

Meanwhile, the Jockey Club, which got in the news as a result of Jackie's quiet dinner with Marlon Brando, has been swamped with guests. On the Saturday night following the Brando-Jackie dinner the club turned away 500 diners.

It's now leaked out that Jacques Vivien, astute manager of the Jockey Club, saved the former First Lady the embarrassment of being photographed on her first date following the assassination. Vivien spied a photographer in the club. The lights were turned low and it was impossible for him to take pictures, but as a precaution Vivien asked him to leave. He complied.

But when Vivien discreetly escorted Mrs. Kennedy and Princess Radziwill with Brando and George Englund, producer of The Ugly American, out the kitchen door, the photographer was in wait just beyond some garbage cans.

Jackie hastily retreated. The photographer did not get his shot.

Jackie then reconnoitered, and on the advice of Mr. Vivien decided to go out the front door with her sister.

By this time, the photographer had come around to the front door. He snapped the two girls together. Brando, however, a diplomat as well as an actor, discreetly left by the kitchen door via the garbage cans.

De Gaulle And Castro

The American Embassy in Paris has warned the State Department that President de Gaulle when he goes to Mexico and the French West Indies in mid-March is almost certain to pay a call on the No. 1 thorn in the side of the United States—Fidel Castro.

De Gaulle not only enjoys sticking pins into American foreign policy, but wants to give a boost to the French sale of trucks, buses, and locomotives to Castro.

This is no ordinary deal. The trucks and locomotives used in Cuba hitherto have all come from the United States, and one thing that has stymied the Cuban economy is the difficulty of getting spare parts. For a time Canada flew spare parts to Havana, previously purchased from Detroit. Finally, the State Department persuaded Canada to desist.

Now France is coming to Castro's rescue with $10,000,000 worth of new transportation.

New French Canal

Concern over this is nothing, however, compared with reaction, when and if it becomes known, to what De Gaulle is reported to have up his sleeve regarding Mexico.

When he visits Mexico, De Gaulle expects to discuss a new French canal route through Mexican territory, in competition with the Panama Canal.

The French have one trump card up their sleeve in digging a new canal—namely, the use of atomic blasts. Under the test ban treaty, the United States would be handicapped in using atomic energy for canal construction. But France never signed the treaty, so De Gaulle can do atomic blasting regardless of radioactive fallout.

Ever since 1900 the French have been sensitive over their failure to dig the Panama Canal. Ferdinand de Lesseps, who dug the Suez Canal, started Panama but abandoned it. The French then hired the original law partner of John Foster Dulles and he lobbied Congress into buying the old Panama Canal bonds from the French and putting the route through Panama instead of Nicaragua as originally voted by the House of Representatives.

Again in 1956 the French were humiliated by Eisenhower's demand that they pull their troops out of Suez, a canal which De Lesseps had dug successfully.

So De Gaulle's ambition is reported to be the restoration of French prestige by digging a new canal through Mexico.

Hypertension Treatment Varies With Patient

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

John had known about his high blood pressure for at least 20 years. It never bothered him and he felt no need for medication. Shortly after his 63d birthday, his family noticed a change in his intellect and behavior. He was unable to make decisions, used poor judgment, and became forgetful and untidy.

This deterioration was caused by hardening of the arteries of the brain. Occasionally, long-standing high blood pressure is responsible for arteriosclerosis and the changes usually are irreversible. But such degeneration often can be prevented by early treatment of hypertension.

At one time we thought the height of the blood pressure was not as important as what the elevated pressure was doing to the organs—the eyes, nervous system, heart, and kidneys. The physician checked these structures periodically and the patient was encouraged to carry on as usual when there was no evidence of damage.

We now know that lowering high blood pressure from the beginning is the best policy. We have the drugs to do it and there is no advantage in waiting for involvement of the vital organs. By then, it may be too late.

The type of management depends upon the personality. Those who are careful and conscientious can be depended upon to follow directions to the letter. But people who are annoyed by constant pill-taking—especially the alcoholics, the overworked, and the easily depressed—are not good subjects for an elaborate program. They require a simple plan such as a one-a-day, long-acting tablet or capsule.

It might be wise for someone in the family to learn how to take the blood pressure. A daily reading helps convince the hypertensive that the remedy really works, even though side reactions may occur. A day-by-day determination is a better index of the efficacy of the regimen than is a single test in the physician's office, especially if the individual happens to be upset that day. In such instances, the evaluation of the dosage would be based on unrealistic conclusions.

TOMORROW: Skin peeling.

ENDOCRINE GLAND

M. S. writes: What does an endocrinologist do?

REPLY

He is a physician who specializes in disorders of the glands of internal secretion—the pituitary, thyroid, para-thyroids, adrenals, thymus, pancreas, and the reproductive glands. Disturbances of these structures cause a variety of symptoms varying from giantism to menstrual disorders.

BELCHING AND GUM

R. S. writes: My 66-year-old father, who is retired, chews gum all day long. He says it helps relieve his indigestion but I say it causes it. Could constant gum chewing bring on gas and belching?

REPLY

It should not, unless air is swallowed while chewing.

THEY DON'T MELT AWAY

D. F. writes: I read your article on the use of staplers after an operation. Do these staplers dissolve eventually or stay in the body for life?

REPLY

They remain, as part of the anatomy.

PLANT ALLERGY

Mrs. P. writes: Do hve plants in the home cause hay fever?

REPLY

Not as a rule because hay fever usually stems from ragweed pollen.

SEA AIR

H. W. writes: I was in the merchant marine service for most of my life until I broke down with tuberculosis. I am an arrested case, and since this is the only kind of work I know, I would like to go back to sea. Do you think the salt air would be bad for my lungs?

REPLY

No, and it might do good. Avoid overexposure to the sun because this may encourage the healed lesions to break down again.

THYROID DEFICIENCY

P. H. writes: My 5-year-old daughter has been given thyroid for two years for what the doctor calls a cretinous condition. Will her thyroid gland ever become normal?

REPLY

Time will tell. The earlier treatment is started, the better the results.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

In the elaborate country home near Williamstown of a squire who had collected millions of dollars but nary one book for his library, John Gunther and the late Sinclair Lewis once found themselves co-guests at luncheon. It was the summer when Lewis' novel, "Kingsblood Royal" was Number One on fiction best-seller lists and Gunther's "Inside U.S.A" occupied a similar position on all non-fiction compilations. Another guest suddenly observed, "It isn't often that you find the authors of the two most popular books in the country dining at the same board. I propose a toast to Messrs. Lewis and Gunther." The host regarded his two distinguished guests with new respect and exclaimed, "I'll be damned! I never knew you two fellows write books!"

Little Oswald had been repeatedly cautioned by his mother to let his younger sister Trudi play with his toys half of the time.

Came the winter's first heavy snow storm and Oswald faithfully carried out his mother's instructions. He rode his sled down the hill and allowed his sister Trudi to pull it up.

In the heart of Dublin, reports the Irish Digest, there dwells a soul so pious that he insists on wearing stained glass in his spectacles during Lent.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

John said that the name of the car was Teapack. My father said he had never heard of it. He wasn't aware that the Japanese make their own automobiles. "What is it?" my father said querulously, "a kind of a Chinee car, would you say?" No, my brother said, Japanese. It was a little secondhand job, and John said he might have to learn to speak Japanese to run it.

My father shook his head. Everything that happens in our family is either hilarious or tragic. The car is a Toyapet. John is a sort of Art Carney in the most lovable sense. He does everything with the best of intentions, and the shrewdest of suspicions, but he was born to be trapped. Once, he went for $400 for a beautiful cabinet radio and, after he got it home, he found that the music was coming out of a second-hand automobile radio.

Now it's a Japanese car. My father asked if it was a good one. "Oh yes," John said gravely, "you turn the key and geisha girls hop out the back." Dad kept shaking his head. He wanted to know how much it had cost. "Nine hundred," John said, "and it's a steal at half the price."

My brother is the only man I know who moonlights in the daylight. He works as a night watchman and, in the early hours of the day, he's a bartender at Louie's Tavern on Broadway in North Bergen, N. J. He needs a car. The one he had was dragging its tailpipe. Sometimes it took off in a proud plume of blue smoke; at others, it just sat and ground its gears.

"How is it," my father said, "that you don't know the correct name of the car you just bought?" My father is 80 years old, and has everything in correct order. John has a glib reply. "Because," he said grimly, "everything on the dashboard is written in Japanese, that's why."

"Ha," my father said, "it must be like that Chinee watch Jim gave me." He was referring to a thirty-jewel watch I bought him in Hong Kong. It can tell him what day of the week it is, what date it is, and when to take the dog for a walk, but he could never get it to tell time. Or, to put it another way, when it told the correct time, the watch didn't know what day it was, and neither did my father. Once he sent it all the way back to Switzerland to be repaired, and it came back telling the correct time, the day of the week, and the date, except that the "Chinee watch" didn't know that this particular month was April, which has thirty days.

The watch went right on to the 31st, and Dad blew his stack. Now his blue eyes glittered with suspicion as he asked questions about the Toyapet. John said that it is basically a good car except that the battery runs down. He is pleased with it, in fact, and hopes to teach it to run without a battery.

"Why doesn't the battery run?" Dad said. Well, John said, the brake light remains on permanently. "You mean you can't shut off the light?" Dad said. John nodded. "So what are you going to do?" Dad said, wondering how my mother managed to raise such an assortment of numbskulls. "Unscrew the bulb," John said.

"I see. Tell me something, John. When this heap falls apart, where do you go for repairs—a chop suey joint?" My brother pays no attention to such jokes. He has better ones. "It's not the bulb that bothers me," he said. "It's the heater." Dad held his hand over his heart to make sure that he wasn't verging on an attack. "What," he whispered, "is the matter with the heater?"

"It won't shut off winter or summer," John said. Dad nodded agreeably. "That must be nice," he said. "You bought a car you can't pronounce — secondhand — and it has a brake light that won't go off, and a heater that keeps percolating all the time, plus a battery that is out of order, and you can't read the dashboard. Anything else?"

"Yes," John said. "I get 33 miles to the gallon." "Gallon of what?" my father said sarcastically. John smiled. "Saki," he said. "What else?" "Does it have an automatic shift?" "Oh no. This is a shift stick." "I suppose it was driven by some retired school teacher up and down her garage?"

"No. It was a young nurse. Most of the time, she couldn't get it to move." "That's nice." "Well, it kept the mileage down, didn't it?" "What happens if you need a new part?" "I don't have to write to Tokyo, if that's what you mean." "How does it run—sort of sidewards?" "Come on. I'll take you for a ride."

My father declined, with thanks. The Toyapet stood out at the curb sapping its own strength. My brother's wife Anna thought that, if the car had to be fixed, maybe John should drive it to the United Nations. Everybody thought that this was very funny. The car was referred to as John's Hiroshima Bomb.

That was a week ago. Now they have all revised their thinking. They like the car. John is the family hero. After the first ride, my father took John aside. "Listen," he said confidentially, "I wouldn't make this offer to anybody else, but would you like to buy a first class Chinee watch?"...

Legislature Begins Work On Reapportioning

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —The special session of the West Virginia Legislature will begin work Monday on a bill to reapportion itself, a job it did last year but not to the liking of the State Supreme Court.

The Legislature was called into special session Friday after the high court declared unconstitutional the 1963 reapportionment act which gave each county, regardless of population, at least one seat in the House of Delegates.

The biggest job facing the lawmakers will be the grouping together of 12 or more of the smallest counties into "delegate districts."

Redistricting Chairman J. E. (Ned) Watson, D - Marion, said the session could be completed by Wednesday if the Senate acted immediately.

Watson said there was "no indication" that the small counties would make any organized effort to kill the legislation.

The toughest decision, Watson said, would be to decide the number of seats the House should have.

Prior to the 1951 reapportion act, the House had 96 seats. That total was increased to 100 and the 1963 act raised the number to 106.

The State Supreme Court ruled that delegate districts are required under the state Constitution for any county which does not have a population equal to three-fifths of the average population-per-delegate.

Under the three-fifths formula, 12 counties would stand to lose their individual seats if the House membership is kept at 106. 13 if it drops to 100, and possibly more if the number falls below 100.

Watson noted that his committee met informally several times during the budget session of the 56th Legislature which completed its work Friday.

"We went through a lot of plans, and indications are that the majority of small counties who have to be joined with somebody else have more or less agreed who they'd like to go with," he said.

Watson hopes his committee, which meets Monday at 10:30 a m., can report out a bill Tuesday and have the measure read for the first time.

He said if the normal amending process is completed Wednesday, he would ask that the three-day rule be suspended and the bill passed immediately.

The Legislature also must pass a companion bill to set up delegate district executive committees, which will recommend replacements to the governor when a House member dies or resigns.

The Senate is expected to leave unchanged its 1963 reapportionment provisions, thus requiring only a re-enactment.

WESTERNPORT — Bruce High School Alumni Association met at the school to map plans for the annual banquet and dance. Richard Whitworth, president, presided.

It was decided to engage Ray Knotts Orchestra if the date is open. Ernest Hilt was appointed to make the arrangements.

The group discussed the feasibility of holding the dance out of the school, preferably at Victory Post No. 155, American Legion home. They decided to have the banquet served at the school and to invite the opinions of the parents of all the 1964 graduates, regarding whether or not to hold the dance in the school. In previous years members of the graduating class left the dance early, indicating little interest.

It was agreed to hold another meeting February 20 at 7:30 p. m. for further discussion. The parents are invited and all Alumni members are urged to attend in room 201 of the school.

Jack Nicklaus Booms Way To Victory In Phoenix Open Tournament

Final Round 66 Beats Brue By 3 Strokes

Victor Cops $7,500 With 271; Littler, Player Tie For 3d

By JACK STEVENSON

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus boomed his drives 300 yards to break through a traffic jam and capture the $50,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament Sunday with a final round 66 and 271 for his 72 hole total.

Jack Nicklaus

His five-under-par last round gave him a three-stroke margin over virtually unknown Bobby Brue, who entered the tournament as the last alternate and scored a 70 Sunday and a 274 total.

In a great final day rally, the 205-pound former Ohio State University standout started three strokes off George Bayer's third-round pace. He promptly knocked six strokes off par on his first seven holes to take command on the Phoenix Country Club course.

Nicklaus finished the nine at six-under-par 30. That more than offset his one-over-par 36 on the second nine when he carded three bogies against two birdies.

On the fourth hole, Nicklaus walloped a 350-yard drive and scored a birdie. On the 305-yard fifth, he drove within six feet of the cup and dropped an eagle putt.

That broke him out of a four-way tie wth Bayer, South Africa's Gary Player and Brue.

Nicklaus collected $7,500 and Brue $4,000. Player hung on to tie for third place at 275 with Gene Littler. The South African shot a 72 and the San Diego star a 67. Bayer slipped to 74 and 276.

Arnold Palmer, who sought his fourth straight Phoenix Open victory finished with a 67 and 278.

The jerseys were part of a sporting goods display presented at the show by The MacGregor Company's K. G. (Red) Waltman, second from right. Also looking on are two of the area's top high school cage mentors, "Ebbie" Finzel (left) and Chet Payne (right). Finzel's Beall High Mountaineers and Payne's Allegany Campers are tied for the WMI League lead with 6-2 records.

Boston Celtics Win Over 76ers

BOSTON (AP) — Tom Sanders' hot shooting paced a third period explosion that gave the Boston Celtics a 120-109 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Sunday in a National Basketball Association clash.

Sanders scored 18 points, but 12 of them came during a spurt in which Boston moved from a 52-51 halftime deficit to an 82-66 lead. Three of the Celtics topped the 20-point mark, headed by Sam Jones with 27. Tom Heinsohn tallied 25 and Bill Russell had 24 points plus 23 rebounds.

Hal Greer was Philadelphia's high scorer with 26 as the 76ers were forced to operate with only nine men. Still sidelined with injuries were Larry Costello and Dave Gambee.

The triumph was the fifth in a row for the Celtics.

Boston's John Havlicek contributed the shot of the game as the first half buzzer sounded when he clicked on a running one-hander from 60 feet out.

ACC Trojans Bury Baltimore Quint, 210-23

Catamounts Lose To Montgomery

The Allegany Community College Trojans, who have been putting Cumberland on the sports map with their impressive performances on the court this season, really made the basketball world sit up and take notice Saturday night by walloping Baltimore Institute, 210-23, on the ACC floor.

Montgomery Junior College, which handed ACC its first home court loss of the season Friday, completed a sweep of area teams by downing Potomac State, 95-68, in a Saturday afternoon fray at Keyser.

Allegany's hard-to-believe point total is the highest listed for a single game by one team in college records, but the NCAA Service Bureau in New York said it wouldn't be recognized because four-year schools were not involved. Baltimore Institute is a prep school for students ranging from grade to post-high school level.

Coach Alan Stockholm of the Trojans said his team could have run up a much higher score, but he instructed them to "hold it down" until there were four minutes remaining and ACC held a 160-16 lead. They then proceeded to score at a 12.5 point-per-minute pace. The halftime score was 90-8.

Shooting at a phenomenal 72.3 per cent clip (92 field goals in 127 attemps), the Trojans had all eight of their players in double figures, ranging from Billy Dean's high output of 40 tallies to Jim Bowman's 17.

Scoring their 17th victory in 19 games, the Trojans hiked their per-game team scoring average to 103.1. Baltimore Institute lost to ACC last year, but the margin was only 101-97.

Montgomery, fresh from a 73-67 triumph over Allegany, broke a 22-22 deadlock midway through the first half and proceeded to hand the Catamounts their ninth loss in 21 games and third in 11 Tri-State Conference battles.

Don Shields racked up 20 points for PSC in the first half, but was limited to a pair of free throws after intermission and wound up with 22 tallies. Jim Windsor slammed in 24 and Bombard added 23 to the Montgomery attack.

Canadian Hockey Team Feels It Was Cheated

Boycotts Olympic Awards Gathering

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Resentful Canadian hockey players boycotted Sunday an international gathering to award Olympic and world championship medals.

The Canadians felt they were cheated Saturday night when for the first time in Olympic history they failed to win a hockey medal.

All the players stayed away from the reception in Innsbruck's town hall.

The only Canadians present were Art Potter, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the Rev. David Bauer, the Canadian coach and trainer John Owen.

Potter said everyone was "extremely fed up with the way the hockey medals were decided."

Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Canada finished in a tie with 5-2 records behind gold medal winner, Russia, which finished with a 7-0 record.

Second place was decided on the basis of goals scored and allowed in all seven games. Canada wanted it decided on a four-game basis. The International Ice Hockey Federation ruled the medals would be awarded on the basis of seven games.

Sweden thus was awarded the silver medal and Czechoslovakia the bronze with Canada dropping to fourth place.

Friend Is 25th Pirate To Sign

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Right-hander Bob Friend, the workhorse of the Pittsburgh Pirate pitching staff and the oldest member of the club in point of service, Sunday became the 25th player to sign a contract for 1964.

Rated as one of the top control pitchers in the National League, the 33-year-old Friend last season completed his seventh consecutive season in which he has started 30 or more games and his eighth season in a row in which he had 100 or more strikeouts. For nine consecutive seasons, Friend has worked 200 or more innings.

In turning in a 17-16 record in 1963, Friend ran into frustration. He pitched 29 consecutive innings in four games before his teammates scored a run for him. In his 16 defeats, Friend worked 97 1-3 innings during which time the team scored only nine runs behind him.

Right - hander Earl Francis with a 4-6 record last year rookie outfielder Dave Wissman, who hit .272 with Asheville, N.C. of the Double A Sally league last year also signed contracts during the weekend.

Jones Is Injured

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Wally Jones, high scorer and captain of the Villanova Wildcats, suffered a severe muscle tear during Saturday night's loss to LaSalle, and is expected to be out for about two weeks, it was disclosed Sunday.

Villanova, ranked sixth in the United Press International basketball ratings, was upset by LaSalle, 63-59.

Fort Hill Cagers Lose DelaGrange For Rest Of Season

Vince DelaGrange, Fort Hill center who was injured in the Sentinels' game with Beall Friday night at Frostburg, is out for the remainder of the season.

The six-foot-four senior pivotman suffered an ankle injury during a scramble for a rebound under his own basket with about two minutes remaining in the game which Beall won, 72 - 64.

X-rays revealed a cracked bone in the right ankle, and it will be placed in a cast for about three weeks.

A three-sport athlete at Fort Hill, DelaGrange is expected to be ready for the baseball season. He was a regular end on the Sentinel football squad last season, currently leads the Fort Hill cagers in scoring and holds down a regular berth in the outfield on the baseball team.

Pettit Scores 32 In Hawks' Victory

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Hawks with Bob Pettit scoring 33 points to increase his National Basketball Association scoring record to 19,248 points, defeated the San Francisco Warriors 116 - 111 Sunday.

The Hawks win evened the two day series between the teams that was marked by near fights among the players. Referee Mendy Rudolph wrestled Zelmo Beaty to the floor in the fourth period to keep San Francisco's Wilt Chamberlain from pummeling him after the two began skirmishing under the Warrior basket.

In Saturday's game, won by San Francisco, Richie Guerin grabbed Gary Phillips around the waist and flung him to the floor.

Sunday's game moved St. Louis into sole possession of second place, two games in back of the Warriors. Los Angeles, which had been tied with St. Louis for second, lost to Baltimore Sunday.

27-Year-Old Skier Captures 90-Meter Jump

Best U.S. Showing Is 24th; Americans Earn Six Medals

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Toralf Engan of Norway sailed through the air like a giant bird and won the final gold medal in the pulsating 90-meter ski jump Sunday before the flame flickered out on the ninth Winter Olympic Games.

A crowd of 70,000, the largest for any single event, swarmed over Bergisel Hill to watch the 143-pound package of graceful skill and cold nerve reestablish himself as king of the jumpers.

The sandy-haired, 27-year-old equipment dealer from the little village of Holonda did it with superb leaps of 307 and 297 feet—the best two of three tries—and such style that he received a score of 230.70 points from the five judges.

Ski jumping championships are decided on a combination of both distance and form. Engan proved himself the master of both.

Finn Is Second

The famed Veikko Kankkonen of Finland, winner of the 70-meter jump, captured the second place silver medal with leaps of 313 and 297 feet and 228.90 points. Torgeir Brandtzaeg of Norway was third with jumps of 302 and 295 feet and 227.90 points.

The four-man U.S. team was unable to crack the strong Scandinavian and North European domination of this neck-risking specialty.

Gene Kotlarek, 23-year-old accountant from Duluth, Minn., made the best American showing by placing 24th in the field of 52 jumpers from 16 nations. His two best jumps measured 285 and 266 feet. He scored 197.50 points.

Duluth Boy Is 29th

Dave Hicks, 18-year-old schoolboy also from Duluth, was 29th on jumps of 279 and 276 feet for 195.30 points. The veteran of the squad, 34-year-old Ansten Samuelstuen of Boulder, Colo., was 33rd with leaps of 267 and 264 for 189.00. John Balfanz, 23, of Minneapolis, rated America's best bet, was a disappointment, finishing 41st on jumps of 272 and 241 feet for 180.20 points.

Engan's gold medal was the 15th medal for Norway — three gold, six silver and six bronze—and made it the second most successful competitor behind the Soviet Union, which won the unofficial team title with 25 medals 11 of them gold.

Seven of the Soviet gold medals were picked up by two lady schoolteachers — speed skater Lidia Skoblikova, who won four in an unprecedented slam, and Claudia Boyarskikh, who grabbed three in cross country skiing.

After a frustrating start, the United States closed on a high note when a pair of 20-year-olds, Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., and Jim Heuga of Tahoe City, Calif., won the silver and bronze in Saturday's men's slalom, the first ever taken by U.S. men skiers in the Winter Games.

U.S. Wins Six Medals

Medals — making a U.S. total of six — also were won by Jean Saubert of Lakeview, Ore., a silver and bronze in the ladies' giant slalom and slalom; schoolboy Scott Ethan Allen of Smoke Rise, N.J., a bronze in the men's figure skating, and barber Terry McDermott of Essexville, Mich., a gold in the men's 500 meter speed skating.

The 90-meter jump was staged in sub-freezing temperatures with gusty winds that threw many of the competitors off balance in flight and caused them to fall.

Just before the brief and colorful closing ceremonies at the Ice Stadium, where athletes gathered to see the flame extinguished for another four years, Poland won the consolation round robin in hockey by beating Austria 5-1. Norway finished second, walloping Yugoslavia 8-4, and Japan fell to third, losing to Italy 8-6.

Soviet Hockey Champs

The Soviet Union won the championship tournament with a perfect 7-0 record, climaxed by a 3-2 triumph over Canada Saturday. The United States finished fifth.

Cooper Scores 55 For Harman Quint

Mick Cooper scored 55 points last weekend in leading Harman High School of Randolph county to an 89-59 victory over Circleville High School's Indians.

Cooper's previous high was 49 points against Circleville last year.

In last week's game Mick collected 22 field goals and connected for 11 points at the charity stripe.

Ronnie Williams scored 30 points for Circleville on 12 field goals and six field goals.

Unbeaten UCLA, Eighth-Ranked Vanderbilt Score Shaky Wins

Four Of Nation's Top Ten Quints Beaten Saturday

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

February and Black Saturdays seem to go together in college basketball.

Wichita, Villanova, Chicago Loyola and DePaul, four of the nation's Top Ten teams, took it on the chin in the Black Saturday of the 1964 season to date. Top-ranked UCLA and Vanderbilt barely escaped disaster.

By a curious coincidence a year ago, six of the Top Ten in The Associated Press rankings were defeated.

UCLA, now the only major unbeaten team, scored its 19th straight victory, a 58-56 squeaker over California helped by Keith Erickson's three - point play in the closing minutes. Eighth-ranked Vanderbilt had a similar scare against Louisiana State before winning 66-64 on Clyde Lee's tip-in at the final buzzer.

Wichita, which had a 10-game streak going, suffered its first defeat in Missouri Valley Conference competition when Leon Hill's one-handed 18-foot shot in the last second gave Bradley a 76-74 victory over the fourth-ranked Wheatshockers.

Villanova, No. 6 in the AP rankings, had its 13-game winning streak shattered by LaSalle 63-59 when Frank Corace's long shot in the last 90 seconds put the Explorers ahead for good at 59-58.

Chicago Loyola, the national champions and ranked No. 9, lost to St. John's N.Y. 71-69 on two free throws by Billy Lawrence with seven seconds left. Tenth-ranked DePaul took a 98-67 drubbing from Memphis State.

Second-ranked Michigan, No. 3 Kentucky and No. 7 Duke won easily. Michigan whipped Illinois 93-82 as Bill Buntin and Cazzie Russell combined for 65 points. Kentucky trampled Mississippi 102-59 for Coach Adolph Rupp's 701st career victory.

Duke crushed Maryland 104-72 for the Blue Devils' 27th straight in Atlantic Coast Conference competition. Fifth-ranked Davidson was idle.

Oregon State upped its record to 20-3 by whipping Portland 95-61, Utah nipped Brigham Young 91-89 in overtime, and Texas Western edged New Mexico 62-60.

Penn checked a late Harvard rally to knock the Crimson out of a five-way tie for the Ivy League lead, 75-67, leaving the Quakers, Princeton, Yale and Cornell in a logjam at the top.

Kansas State bumped Colorado out of a tie for the lead in the Big Eight by defeating the Buffaloes 60-59 in overtime. Oklahoma State took over undisputed leadership by walloping Missouri 80-61.

Georgia Tech remained tied with Kentucky for first place in the Southeastern Conference by administering Tulane's 18th straight defeat 92-68. Drake stayed on the heels of Wichita in the MVC by downing St. Louis 70-57.

Drake's victory set up a showdown game between the Bulldogs and Wichita Monday night.

Arizona State kept alive in the WAC race by nipping Arizona 67-66 and the first place Texas Aggies made it six straight in the SWC by defeating Arkansas 72-64.

Gary Bradds' 40 points led Ohio State to a 98-96 overtime triumph over Indiana.

Bruins Tie Canadiens

BOSTON (UPI) — Rookie Dornhoefer's goal with only two minutes remaining Sunday night gave the Boston Bruins a 4-4 comeback tie with the Montreal Canadiens.

Dornhoefer's score, his ninth goal and 16th point in 17 major league games, came at 17:56 of the third period in a Boston Garden jammed by a standing room only crowd.

The tie snapped a two-game Canadien winning streak but did not damage Montreal's record of not losing here this season.

Army Will Enlist Married Men

Sgt. Joseph A. Celich, local recruiter, yesterday listed requirements for enlistment of married men into the Army.

Married men with no prior service and no dependents, may enlist for three years, Sgt. Celich said. Those with prior service who have been honorably discharged may re-enlist if they do so within three months, regardless of the number of dependents. DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear son, Pfc Charles Pete Jones who lost his life in World War II, February 10, 1945, 19 years ago today.
Keep him Jesus, in Thy Keeping
Till I reach that heavenly shore
Then oh Master, let me have him
To love and keep him as before.
Sadly missed by
Mother, Sister & Brothers

In loving memory of our father, Joseph O. Mellott, who died on Feb 10, 1942
At times our thoughts go wandering
To the grave not far away,
Where lies the sweetest memory,
That shall never fade away.
Although your soul is at rest,
And free from care and pain,
Our home would seem like heaven,
If you were back again.
Sadly missed by daughters and son.

Somali, Ethiopian Troops Clash At Troubled Border

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Somali forces, supported by tanks and heavy artillery, attacked two additional Ethiopian border posts Sunday in the two nations' border conflict.

Fighting also raged at Tug Uagiale, where hostilities began Saturday, Ethiopian sources said, said.

Emperor Haile Selassie called for an urgent emergency session of the Organization of African Unity. United Nations message to Selassie and Prime Minister Abdirashid Shermarke of Somalia, asked both sides to cease hostilities.

Each nation declared the border region in a state of emergency when fighting flared Saturday, and each gave a conflicting version of what sparked the clash.

The Ethiopian Ministry of Information said 100 Somali soldiers were killed and 200 wounded Saturday and 9 Ethiopians were killed and 44 wounded.

Ethiopia claimed the fighting began when Somalia troops attacked Tug Uagiale. In recent days Ethiopia has denounced a series of border forays staged by armed Somali tribesmen.

Somalia said Ethiopian troops began the attack with a mortar bombardment and the strafing support of a single airplane.

The two nations tangled in the same region in 1960, just after Somalian independence from Italy. Somalia recently received a shipment of Russian arms.

'ESP' Claimant Under Arrest

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Hurkos, 52, whose claimed powers of extra-sensory perception were used in a Boston police investigation last week, was arrested at a Manhattan hotel early Sunday on a charge of impersonating an FBI agent.

An FBI spokesman said Hurkos claimed on Dec. 10 in Wauwatosa, Wis., to be an FBI agent enroute to Las Vegas to investigate the kidnapping of Frank Sinatra Jr.

The spokesman said he had no further details on the incident.

In Boston last Thursday, Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke said information from Hurkos led police to one suspect now in custody in connection with the stranglings of 11 women in the greater Boston area.

Hurkos was shown pictures of the victims, was taken to the scene of at least one of the crimes, and examined other evidence.

Brooke said Hurkos then described the man he thought was responsible. The description was "uncannily close," he said to that of a 57-yard-old itinerant shoe salesman now under observation in a state mental institution.

Council To Review Workable Program

The Mayor and Council will meet today with William F. DeMare, executive director of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency, to discuss the city's application for recertification of its Workable Program for the elimination of slums and blighted conditions.

The conference will be held following the Council meeting so city officials can discuss and review the application.

Mr. DeMare tomorrow will take a rough draft of the application to Philadelphia, where it will be reviewed by Housing and Home Finance Agency staffers.

Mountain Highways Covered With Snow

State Roads Commission crews were called out last night after snow began to build up on highways in Western Maryland.

Crews were called out in Garrett County at about 5:30 p. m. to scatter chemicals and abrasives and similar crews were dispatched at 8 p. m. in Allegany County. No buildup was reported at that time in Washington County, but a crew was sent to the Hancock area to check on the situation.

Chancey Is Named To WVU Grid Staff

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI) —Ralph Chancey, assistant football coach at the University of Tennessee the past 14 years, was named defensive backfield coach at West Virginia University Saturday night. His new duties will become effective March 15.

The 41-year-old Chancey succeeds Ray Watson who resigned.

Coach Gene Corum said Chancey would specialize in pass defense.

fered resident of the area is that if the district adjoins a parking lot for an adjoining commercial district, a wall must be erected around portions of the lot adjoining residential areas, no illumination from the lot must be directly visible from any residence and no vehicles may be moved on the lot between 10 p. m. and 7 a. m.

The second category is RG-1, general residential district, with medium density. Permitted in this area are single family, two family and multi-family residences as well as related uses in keeping with the residential character of the district.

The third is the RG-2, the General Residential district. This is a high density area and allows all R-S and RG-1 construction, plus apartment hotels, boarding and rooming houses, accessory uses such as restaurants and newsstands and, with approval of the Board of Appeals, mobile home parks and trailer parks, subject to city laws.

Offices Allowed

The fourth is the R-O district, a residential-office district. It is intended to provide along certain major streets for professional and business offices and related uses which are compatible with adjacent and surrounding residential uses. Allowed are all uses permitted by right in RG-2, plus tourist homes, business and professional offices, mortuaries and other related uses including nursing homes.

C-1 is the local commercial district, meant to provide for the daily shopping and business needs of nearby residences and to contain those retail, service and office uses to serve the local population.

C-2 is the highway commercial district, and contains uses catering to highway travelers and uses which serve the shopping and business needs of the local and regional population.

C-3 is the central business district and is meant to include commercial uses serving the regional and local area, together with uses compatible with a cohesive and attractive business and shopping area. As an accessory use on the same premises, it allows dwelling units for occupancy only by the owners or employers.

C-4 is the central business district expansion area and is intended to provide for future development of the existing central business district.

M-1 is the Light Industrial District and is meant to contain industrial uses which are somewhat compatible with residential and commercial uses. The uses permitted in the district have a limited nuisance value. It permits wholesale businesses, warehouses, trucking terminals but does not permit the storage of inflammable, explosive or noxious materials.

The M-2- Heavy Industrial District allows manufacturing, processing and storage uses which should be separated from other uses by reason of characteristics which may harmfully affect other uses. The exclusion of residential uses and commercial uses is intended to promote the economic welfare of the city by reserving especially suited sites for industry and by controlling the intermingling of incompatable uses.

Is Flood Land

The F-1, or floodway district, contains land subject to flooding.

It was pointed out at Thursday night's meeting that the ordinance provides that "notwithstanding limitations imposed by other provisions of this ordinance, a single-family dwelling and customary accessory buildings may be erected on any single lot of record at the effective date of adoption or amendment of this ordinance, except in industrial zones."

There is nothing in the ordinance, it was stressed, to keep people from keeping up their homes or rebuilding them no matter where they are located, and that all the ordinance says is that you "can't build any more new homes in industrial areas."

Revenue Forecaster

must enact a $42 million tax program to become effective next Jan. 1, which would cover this increase and also a $27 million rise in other state spending, which already can be foreseen for the next year. He has indicated he will veto anything less.

Tawes told the General Assembly when it convened last Wednesday that a projection of future revenue requirements "shows unmistakably that the revenue from the new tax will be needed to balance the budgets of fiscal 1965 and 1966 and of subsequent years" if the expanded school aid program is to be adopted on top of other state spending.

Tawes assumes that the state revenue yield for 1965-66 will be precisely what Young regards as an imprecise and undeterminable figure.

In the past, this preliminary estimate has turned out — 2½ years later—to have been underguessed by $20,433,000 in fiscal 1961, $22,874,000 in fiscal 1962, $36,055,000 in fiscal 1963 and a now estimated $31,336,000 for the current fiscal year which will end June 30.

Young has no apologies to make for having underestimated these revenues so far in advance.

He has found recessions, steel strikes, state tax adjustments and other figures producing an impact on estimates and he has come much closer to those given for budgeting purposes.

He also doesn't want to be drawn into the political conflict of opinion between Gov. Tawes, his former boss as state comptroller who advocates a major tax hike now ("That takes a lot of nerve," says Young) and his present boss, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, who favors holding off a major state tax increase until the impact of federal tax revenues can be more accurately assessed.

"It's not my job to say what a state tax increase should be or when it should be levied" Young says.

"But as an administrator, I certainly feel that a new program—such as the proposed new aid to education program — should be financed by increased revenues."

He leaves to the governor and legislature whether this increase should be exactly enough to carry the new program or enough to provide a cushion for the other probable needs as well. The question is the major issue of the current 30-day session.

White Pupils May Boycott Notasulga School Today

By DON McKEE

NOTASULGA, Ala. (AP)—White students may stage a boycott rather than face the prospect of desegregation at Notasulga High School.

Residents reported several white students picked up their books at school Saturday, indicating they planned to stay away from classes.

Mayor James Rea said a mass walkout would prevent him from invoking the fire safety ordinance he used last Wednesday to keep six Negroes from entering the school. The ordinance sets a limit on attendance in the building.

The mayor also said the city's water filtration plant was operating enough to permit classes to resume Monday. The plant was damaged by fire last Wednesday night.

Notasulga residents, independent and firm in their convictions, waited for the next development in the town of 1,200 with the Creek name meaning "many teeth."

Outsiders — including newsmen and photographers — were looked at with suspicion by some of the townspeople.

Into this little town, a federal judge sent six Negroes with orders for them to be admitted to Notasulga High School where school pride is such that losing a football or basketball game is simply a catastrophe.

The Negro students arrived on a bus last Wednesday. They never got off. But a white photographer did. He was hauled off by a specially deputized policeman and a sheriff from a county 110 miles away and his cameras were smashed.

Other newsmen and photographers were harassed by a few of the white spectators at the school.

In the words of Mayor Rea, "These people represent rural America—they don't want anyone coming in from the outside and running their affairs. . ."

Resentment against the idea of integration was fanned by the fact that the six Negro students were hauled from Tuskegee, 10 miles to the south.

Notasulga, located in the northern edge of Macon County, is the one area of the county where white residents outnumber Negroes. The ratio is about 3-2 white; in the county as a whole, Negroes hold a 5-to-1 majority.

Yet, segregation has not been thought about much in housing. Some of the residential areas actually are integrated; white persons and Negroes live almost next door to each other.

A public accommodations law wouldn't have much effect in Notasulga—there isn't a cafe or restaurant, a movie or a hotel in town.

The sentiment of most of the white people seems to be in favor of closing Notasulga High and trying to set up a private school, rather than accept integration.

The six Negroes ordered admitted at Notasulga were among 12 left in the Tuskegee High School which was boycotted by white pupils. A private school was set up for white pupils in Tuskegee.

After the Tuskegee school was closed, U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., ordered six of the 12 Negroes transferred to the Notasulga school and six to Shorter.

Johnsons Fly Back To Capital After Funeral

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) —President and Mrs. Johnson, dressed in the somber black of mourning, joined friends and neighbors Sunday at the funeral of Mrs. Jesse C. Kellam, a lifelong friend, then returned to Washington.

Turning briefly from politics and the affairs of state, Johnson went to the funeral home for a 15-minute service then to a brief burial ceremony at the cemetery before flying back to the nation's capital aboard his jetliner, Air Force 1.

The President and Mrs. Johnson drove directly to Bergstrom Air Force Base and left by jetliner for Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington.

The President's plane arrived at Andrews at 7:45 p.m. EST. He flew directly by helicopter to the White House.

Gov. John B. Connally, his arm still in a cast as a result of the wounds suffered at the hands of President Kennedy's assassin, joined the Johnsons at the rites.

The Johnsons flew from the LBJ Ranch 65 miles away in a small Jetstar plane. The President went directly to the Kellam home while Mrs. Johnson went to radio-television station KTBC to wait for him.

Mrs. Kellam's husband is manager of the station. The station is held by trustees for Mrs. Johnson and the two Johnson daughters.

Council, Citizens To Meet On Zoning

Session Scheduled At 7 P. M. Today

The Mayor and Council will confer today with a delegation from South Cumberland and with a representative of the Mapleside section concerning proposals for zoning in the areas.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in City Hall and is planned in order to answer specific questions concerning zoning asked by residents of the affected areas.

Representatives of both areas last week submitted a list of the questions residents of the areas had concerning the proposed new zoning ordinance.

The questions were discussed in detail by the Mayor and Council at a special meeting held in City Hall last Thursday night in preparation of tonight's conference.

The South End organization—the South Cumberland Taxpayers and Citizens Association, was asked to have a committee of 10 at the meeting, and after questions concerning the Mapleside section arose, citizens there were asked to submit questions and to have a representative at the meeting.

Submit Statement

Members of the association, in a statement released yesterday said they wished "to correct the opinion that they are against zoning, industrial expansion of local industry or progress of the City of Cumberland. . . .

"But they also feel that to pass a zoning ordinance that would transgress against personal rights, as we feel the proposed ordinance would do to the people of this section, would be unjust. That our privilege of building and expanding on property we already own and have paid taxes on would be arrested for other purposes is unjust.

"We feel that a zoning ordinance should be passed but time should be taken to assure that some of the people do not benefit from hardships imposed on others. . . .

"We feel if this present law is passed, some of our properties will be arrested. We feel the intent of this law is to destroy the value of this property without compensation to its owners."

Has 11 Types

The present city zoning ordinance, adopted in 1944, provided for five zoning categories—Residential A, Residential B, Residential C, Business, and Industrial.

The proposed ordinance provides for 11 different categories in order to make the best possible use of all available land and to protect the rights of each classification.

The highest type of residential zone would be R-S residential district. This district is intended for single family dwellings but a number of other uses, for schools, churches, playgrounds and, with permission of the zoning board, private clubs, semi-public and private institutions and cemeteries. Local 453 Unit Accepts Dairy Pact

Package Includes 5-Cent Increase For Plant Crews

Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, last night voted to accept a contract proposal made by the management of seven area dairies, according to Joseph Freno, business agent.

The agreement, reached with the cooperation of the National Mediation Service, averted a strike scheduled for midnight by about 150 plant and route workers of the dairies.

The contract is retroactive to February 1 and will be effective for one year, Mr. Freno said.

The proposed accepted by the workers included a five-cent-an-hour increase for inside employes, a $5 increase per holiday pay for route men, a $5 increase in the weekly guarantee for route men and a $4.50 increase per employe per month in health and welfare and pension contributions.

Members of the union Saturday night rejected a proposal by the management of the Liberty, Queen City and Fairmont dairies in Cumberland; Dashiell Dairy, Midland; Dairy Dale, Meyersdale; Royale Dairy, Keyser, and Mason's Dairy, Cresaptown.

Company and union negotiators met here yesterday at 3:30 p. m. to resume negotiations with federal mediator James Holden present. It resulted by 8:15 p. m. in the agreement accepted by the workers late last night.

Basis Of Tax Plan:

Revenue Forecaster Calls His Estimate Rough, Conservative

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The man who made the long-range revenue prediction for 1965-66 on which Gov. Tawes is basing his request for a controversial 1 per cent increase in the income tax, calls it "a conservative guess, based on the best available information."

"It can prove very conservative if the federal tax cut works out the way it's supposed to and boosts our economy," Irvin W. Young said Sunday.

But Young, a 54-year-old state accountant who has been keeping a close eye on Maryland tax revenues for the past 26 years and estimating the probable yield for budget makers, doesn't see anything definite enough to base an official forecast on.

"It's impossible to accurately predict two years in advance what the economic situation will be," he says. "It's difficult enough when you're working only a few months ahead."

"We try to come up with some long-range picture so that the state can plan ahead. We account for an economic growth that we consider reasonable but, in this preliminary estimate, we're not making up a budget and we realize we don't have to be precise. We just set up the best guide we can."

So Young, chief of the Maryland Bureau of Revenue Estimates since its founding in 1938, is sticking with the $325 million he told Gov.Tawes and the State Board of Revenue Estimates last December he thought the state could definitely count on in general fund revenues for the year beginning July 1.

Young thinks the 10 per cent growth rate in the economy of the past two years is too high to be maintained over a period of the next two years, but he has not tried to measure the over-all effect of a federal tax cut on state revenues.

He said the state sales and income taxes, which make up three-fourths of general fund revenues, are "very volatile" taxes that rise or fall with changes in the national economy.

Normally his year-in-advance peek at state revenues makes no difference in budgeting. Young started doing it some 10 years ago at the request of Sen. John Grason Turnbull, then chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, who wanted an idea of what might lie ahead in the year following the budget being considered.

But this year is different. Gov. Tawes has gone beyond the 18-month forecast of revenues for his budget in the next year and used the preliminary fiscal 1966 figure to forecast the state's needs when the General Assembly reconvenes next January.

Threatens Veto

He said if the Legislature approves a $16.2 million program of aid to education this year it

Soil District Adds 32 New Cooperators

Some 32 new cooperators were assisted by Allegany Soil Conservation District during 1963 in conservation practices involving 3,600 acres of land, according to a report of district accomplishments.

Since the soil district was formed 614 cooperators have employed over 27 soil and water conservation practices in some measure, on 110,046 acres of land in the county.

According to the report by Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist and Wilbert F. Paul, chairman of the district supervisors, basic plans were prepared during the year for 24 land owners involving 3,938 acres, as well as revised plans for 18 farmers with 3,509 total acres.

Some of the conservation practices applied last year by cooperators as well as non-cooperator farmers, included conservation cropping, 9,888 acres; contour farming, 1,184 acres, cover crop, 2,598 acres; pasture and hayland renovation, 142 acres and rotation grazing, 247 acres.

Woodland practices included 8,768 acres livestock exclusion, 205 acres tree planting and 1,085 acres, woodland management. Some 369 acres were re-employed for wildlife habitat preservation.

Structural measures installed to aid soil and water conservation were two farm ponds, making a total of 92 installed in the county; 8,285 feet tile drain, 368 feet diversion terraces, and 5,480 feet cut back border.

Continued encouragement to farmers to develop basic conservation plans and to give some thought to income producing recreation enterprises are the main objectives listed by the supervisors for 1964. They plan to continue educational activities and to work with cooperators on farm planning and establishment of soil and water conservation practices.

Besides Mr. Paul other supervisors of the district are Floyd Buser, vice chairman, Charles S. Harvey, treasurer, Nat Workman and Theodore Stegmaier.
